Your task

How do we feed a hungry planet? How can the next generation make their impact on global food security? And what do you, personally, have to contribute? We'd like to hear from you directly!

We're asking you to share a video, in English, about your project idea for feeding a hungry planet, whether it's big or small. How do you plan to make a difference? Where do the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) fit in? Remember: you're pitching and you're here to win over our hearts and minds, so show us your passion and your vision. For more tips on how your application video should look, click here

You want to get some tips? Then get inspired by Simon Pampena!

VAS application final

Now, onto the content!

Here's what we want to learn while we're watching your video clip:

1. Who are you? Introduce yourself, including your name, age and your country of origin.
2. Why are you interested in agriculture, or passionate about food security?
3. What is your (big or small) project idea to feeding a hungry planet? How can you contribute? The more details, the better. Sketches, samples, prototypes — it all helps us get as excited as you are. Make sure to link your idea to (one of the) SDGs
4. How did you get to this project idea? Tell us how you got the idea, and how much you've accomplished so far. Sharing the project's history helps us understand the kind of work you do, and how you go about it.
5. What is your master plan and how does your schedule look like? Tell us about your rough timeline.
6. Why do you care? Tell us why you're passionate about your project and committed to making it happen.
7. If you're selected to join the Youth Ag Summit. How would you use this opportunity to make real change in your local community?
